SALES AGRONOMIST

Be involved in some of the most diverse cropping in the country. The Mareeba and Tablelands Shires are located in the one of the best climates - reef, rainforest and outback on your doorstep!

TGT provides a full range of agricultural products and advisory services to the agricultural industry in Far North Queensland. TGT's field services range from soil health and management to irrigation services, plant nutrition and crop protection through to cardboard cartons and packaging. TGT also specialise in the supply of general building & hardware products, rural merchandise, animal feed manufacturing and engineering services.

This full time position will provide agronomic services to support existing and new agricultural clients to develop business opportunities. The role will work independently and also as part of the team to provide a high level of service to our customers focusing on crop yield and increasing production for our diverse customer base. This role will also participate in general customer service support, maintaining industry networks, and participating in product training and promotional events.

The successful applicant will have:

- proven track record in agronomy with an exceptional understanding of agricultural products and farming practices
- excellent communication skills (verbal & written)
- demonstrated skills in building strong relationships
- strong negotiation & influencing skills
- proven ability to work collaboratively and independently
- motivated, results driven and keen to learn
- intermediate MS Office skills

As a member of the AgLink Group, TGT can access all major agricultural suppliers in order to offer our customers a wide range of products, services and industry knowledge.

The successful candidate will be offered a salary commensurate with experience.
